Bia-Dekape is the Museum of Idaho’s Columbian mammoth. His name means “big food” in Shoshone because, thousands of years ago, native people hunted these kinds of mammoths. Our own Bia-Dekape is safe in the museum, but he loves the idea of exploring Idaho! Dress him up with the right gear for his next big adventure!

Check out the Museum of Idaho’s website for educational programs that will get you exploring Idaho just like Bia-Dekape!
